

Stone is neither hot nor cold.

If you pick stone - you lukewarm.

If you are lukewarm, you can probably achieve a good balance between emotional warmth and coolness. A great skill is to be able to switch from one to other depending on the circumstances. You might want to show your warm side with your friends or partner, and your cool side when returning a damaged or faulty item to a store.